ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a method for increasing peer privacy, a request for a data is received from a data requestor and the data is stored at a data provider. A plurality of peers are selected to form a path, where the data provider and the data requestor are the respective ends of the path. A mix is generated according to the path and the mix is transmitted to the data provider.